

The Happenstance Scotland + Venice 2018

Cultural Connectors Forum

Venue: The Grand Hall, Palazzo Zenobio

(Collegio Armeno Moorat Raphael, Dorsoduro 2596, Venezia 30123).

The Cultural Connectors Forum is about bringing together influential thinkers and makers from a wide spectrum of disciplines and interests; science, art, theatre, architecture, anthropology, health and well-being, education, environmental studies, film-making, journalism, entrepreneurship and activism.

The forum is built from inspiring people we've met in Venice, and from across Scotland, people who all think about the role of building, bridging and reconnecting relationships within, and beyond, their specialist fields.

This emphasis, on inbetweening, has been one of the most valuable aspects of The Happenstance. Through offering a freespace for people to gather and exchange, we have been delighted to watch new networks emerging, new possibilities taking shape. In the context of an Architectural Biennale, this inbetweening has been described by The Happenstance Curator, Peter McCaughey, as 'Architecture Plus', where the emphasis is on the 'Plus'.

This Forum will offer each contributor a freespace to present, (10 mins), and to see how other presenters approach their challenges, locations, budgets and aspirations for the future.

There is an idea here to build, and supercharge, existing initiatives and to support emerging ideas and networks through the sharing of resource, tools and time.

The day of the event will include lunch, a convivial evening meal together at Zenobio, and a series of film screenings in our garden afterwards.

Presentations

Must Go On by Karen Phillips

Over the last two years of NLC's organisational change we have adopted a collection of projects designed for our audiences and partnerships that are open to being courageous. Courage requires vulnerability and empathy. They may be socially charged or require out-of-the-box planning but their commonality is their connection between the local and the international.

Borrow Blend and Serve: Activities for Building Resilience and Plasticity by Giovanni Cecconi

Borrowing, blending and serving are the main activities of the "be yourself" Venice Resilience Lab, a project by Wigwam Local Community. The Lab connects local people with authorities through organising day-long boat trips in the Venice Lagoon. On the boat participants are involved in conversations while sharing good food and beverages without the possibility of escaping important common issues in favour of urgent personal matters.

Associazione Viviamo Venezia, A small association to connect people by Corrado Claut

The presentation focuses on 'Associazione Viviamo Venezia' and the experience of collaborating with The Happenstance.

Representation, value and public spaces by Basharat Khan

This presentation will focus on the role of a film-maker as cultural connector, based on the experience of The Happenstance.

by Lucia Pedrana

Lucia Pedrana is Exhibitions and Events Organiser working the European Cultural Forum and the Global Art Affairs Foundation.

Switch Art Project: Contemporary Video Art in Public Context, Nenagh, Co. Tipperary By Harald Turek

This presentation will focus on how to facilitate people to reconnect to their own public spaces through the experience of the Switch Art Project.

About Cultural Association by Chiara Gaspardo

About Association is a group of researchers, activists, architects and artists promoting new methodologies in community regeneration; solidarity and collectivity; knowledge, resource and skills exchange as fundamentally spatial practices and processes.

DO.VE the meaning of a District Association by Antonella Maione

"we soon realized that the sense of the Association was wider, that the survival of commercial and productive activities in a city like Venice is strictly connected with the survival of the city itself"

Sull'ex Chiesa di S. Marta. Un'idea di riqualificazione culturale / On the former Church of S. Marta. An idea of cultural redevelopment by Nicolás Cristante

This presentation will outline the general aspects and the theoretical and strategic foundations of the cultural redevelopment project led by the Fontego Media start-up in the Maritime Area of Venice and in particular in the historic building of the former Church of S. Marta.

Zone to Defend: The liberated territory against the airport and its world
by Ben Parry

The ZAD is the story of the largest land occupation in France, a liberated zone of 4000 acres that has successfully blocked construction of a major new airport. The presentation will explore what we might learn from this living experiment in communal imaginaries, post-capitalist possibilities and lived-in alternatives. How can we rethink our relationship to other forms of life in nature? What is the future of ritual in new forms of struggle?

Infinite Places
By Nicola Delon & Lola Paprocki

Infinite Places are open places, possible places, un-finished ones that establish spaces of freedom and the search for alternatives. In the French Pavilion we present a subjective selection of ten places that emerged out of specific encounters.

BURB - dynamics of urban re-appropriation
By Andrea Curtoni

BURB (Biennale Urbana) explores the limits and inhabits the existing space between the Biennale (cultural institution), Venice (the City) and its Lagoon (Territory). It's inspired by Documenta Urbana, a project by Lucius and Annemarie Burckhardt in Kassel (1980-1982) and aims to experiment with the regeneration of abandoned and underutilized spaces of the city through the connection of artistic production with the real needs of the urban context.

Shakespeare at the Beccaria Juvenile Prison in Milan, a theatre workshop, bringing together university students and inmates.
by Maggie Rose

This presentation will focus on a series of workshops set up at the Beccaria Juvenile Prison in Milan by Maggie Rose and Cristina Cavecchi from Milan State University, in collaboration with the Punto Zero Company based in Beccaria, for arts faculty students and young inmates. The workshops focus on using Shakespeare plays to help break down personal and social boundaries through collaborative work on playwriting and performing.

Designed in Time
by Heather Claridge

The presentation discusses the role of temporary urbanism in shaping vibrant and adaptive places and explores the approach and learning from Glasgow's planning-led Stalled Spaces Initiative operating since 2011 to reactivate 'lost space' in the city.

Poetry cuts to the Chase
by Ronna Bloom

I use poetry to help people connect to what's meaningful in their work, and find out what gets in their way.

Venice Open Stage, International Theatre Festival
by Emma Soletti

Venice Open Stage promotes the meeting between drama students, young theatre professionals and a diversity of audiences in the city of Venice. The presentation will focus on the story of the project born in 2013.

Taking part and being part of chance
by Irmi Hitthaler

Presentation about how community participation processes can be used in different contexts such as developing a community center or a public garden.

WahV: Venice as a living city
by Jane Da Mosto

Our tagline is 'Venice for the Venetians, Venice for the world'. Starting with the circumstances that brought WahV into existence, the way we work combining research, activism and concrete changes will be presented both in terms of the future for Venice as well as a metaphor for global challenges.

Open yourself to everybody for sharing: the experience of 'Nuovo Cinema Libero' at Ca'Zenobio
by Giovanni Andrea Martini

A presentation about 'Nuovo Cinema Libero', an open-air cinema event organised in collaboration with the Municipality of Venezia Murano and Burano and presented as part of The Happenstance over the summer.

The Garden of Unaccompanied Children
by Paolo Rosso & Alice Ongaro Sartori

This presentation will focus on a project led by MICROCLIMA (in collaboration with Roberto Sartor) between 23 May and 16 September in Serra dei Giardini, Venice, that included a series of events that transformed the garden into a playground and a place for research and conversations.

Song Exchange
by Roddy Buchanan

The 'Song Exchange' was developed to promote cultural connection while canoeing down the Usumacinta River in Mexico with a group of environmental activists in April 2015.

Pose Work for Sisters
By Jacqueline Donachie (presented by Roddy Buchanan)

One of Donachie's numerous artworks that employ the expertise of families affected by inherited disability to speak back to the world of science that researches them. It was made with her sister, Susan, and is mindful of Bruce Mclean's 1971 work, Pose Work for Plinths. 'When static, little separates us, but in moving on and off the plinths there are subtle differences in gait, posture and ability that speak of inheritance in many forms.'
